

GOVERNOR FIRES GUN THAT OPENS GUARD CAMP

Mt. Gretna, July 12 (AP).—The roar of light and heavy field artillery today added a new note to the Pennsylvania National Guard's summer encampment.

Governor Gifford Pinchot pulled the lanyard to fire a seventy-five-millimeter field piece which saw action in the World War, to open the new Indiantown Gap camp site in the Blue Ridge Mountains between Indiantown and Manada Gaps.

Earlier, the 109th and 110th Infantry, 103rd Medical Regiment, and 28th Division Special Troops, about 3500 men, paraded past their commander-in-chief at Mt. Gretna.

The horse-drawn 109th Field Artillery and tractor-drawn 176th swung past the Governor at Indian-town Gap several hours after he reviewed the foot troops.
